I. Custody Law and Definitions

In North Carolina, the law gives judges in the district courts the right to decide who has custody of minor children. Once a custody case is filed, the Judge has the power to make the decision about where the child lives and who will get to make decisions for the child.

The Judge, in trying to figure out who should have custody and/or any visitation, will try to decide what is in the "best interest of the child."

In deciding what is in the best interest of a child, a court may consider things such as who provides the day-to-day care of a child, who interacts with a child's teachers, who attends doctor visits, who provides supporting and enriching activities for the child, who knows the child's likes and dislikes, and who makes sacrifices for the child.

The Judge will look at all the information affecting the child's life to make certain his/her decision is based on the best interest of the child. It is important that you raise all the facts that will assist the Judge in making his/her decision.

There are two main types of custody: "Legal Custody" and "Physical Custody."

What is "Legal Custody"?

The parent(s) or person(s) who make the major decisions in the child's life (such as decisions about health/healthcare, education, and religious upbringing) have "legal custody." The child does not have to live with the parent or person who has legal custody. The Judge may give legal custody to two people jointly ("Joint Legal Custody"), or one person may be given the primary responsibility to make major decisions for the child ("Primary Legal Custody").

What is "Physical Custody"?

The parent or person who has actual, physical care of the child has "physical custody." Again, the Judge may give physical custody to two people jointly ("Joint Physical Custody"). The people with joint physical custody are allowed to share time with the child so that each one has regular contact with the child. This does not mean that the child must live half the time with one parent and the other half with the other parent. The Court decides how much time the child spends with each parent.

Instead of joint physical custody, the Judge may give one person "Primary Physical Custody". In this situation, one parent or person has the child in his or her care for a large majority of the time. Another parent or relative may still have regular contact and overnight visitation with the child.

It is possible for the Court to order "joint legal and physical custody," so that both parents have equal decision-making power and share physical custody, if one parent asks for it and the Court decides that it is in the best interest of the child.

What is "Visitation"?

"Visitation" is the time that a person who does not have primary physical custody spends with the child. During the custody proceedings the Judge will attempt to set a visitation schedule that is in the "best interest of the child." The amount and type of visitation granted by the Court depends on things such as the living arrangements of the person asking for visitation, the ages of the children, how far apart the parents live, the desires of older children, and whether there has been domestic violence or child abuse. Visitation schedules may include: overnights during the week, weekend visits, telephone calls, sharing of holidays, and school vacations. You cannot deny visitation just because the other parent does not pay child support.

Who is the "Plaintiff"?

The "Plaintiff" is the person filing for custody. If you are starting this custody case, you are the plaintiff. You will remain the plaintiff, regardless of whether the opposing party files additional documents.

Who is the "Defendant"?

The "Defendant" is the person (or persons) you are suing for custody. That person may be a parent or grandparent. If you, are a non-parent, you MUST include the biological parents, if living, as defendants. The person you sue will remain the defendant, regardless of whether you file additional documents.

II. Where do I file a Custody or Visitation Action?

Some of the most important questions you must ask as you plan to file for custody or visitation are: Where should my case be filed? In what state? In what county? These are important questions because if you do not file in the right place, the Judge might refuse to hear the case.

Questions you must consider include:

1. Are there any other cases already filed?

In order to decide where to file, the first question to ask is has there ever been a custody case in court about the child? If yes, then you should try to get a copy of the custody papers and have them reviewed by an attorney before you file a new case. Most of the time, you will have to file requests to change prior custody orders in the same place that the case was first started.

2. Can I file my custody case in North Carolina?

If there has never been any type of court case about the child, then to figure out if you can file the action in North Carolina you must know where this child has lived the past six months. The general rule is that the child must have lived in North Carolina for six months for the case to be properly heard in North Carolina. In such case, North Carolina is the "home state" of the child. If the child is less than six months old, then you can file in North Carolina if the child is currently in North Carolina or has been here the majority of his or her life. It is important to remember that the judges only look at where the child has lived NOT where the parents or other guardians have lived.

3. In what county should I file?

Most of the time, you should file the action in the county where the child is living. You can also file it in the county where you live or where a parent lives.

IV. Instructions for Filing Custody/Visitation Papers

1. After you fill out the following forms:

- Complaint
- Civil Summons
- Domestic Civil Action Cover Sheet
- Affidavit as to Status of Minor Child
- Servicemembers Civil Relief Act Declaration
- Petition to Proceed as an Indigent (if applicable)

Make sure you sign the following forms in the presence of a Notary Public before you go to the Courthouse:

- “Verification” found on the last page of the Complaint
- Affidavit as to Status of Minor Child
- Servicemembers Civil Relief Act Declaration
- Petition to Sue/Appeal as an Indigent (if applicable)

2. Make two (2) copies of each form before you go to the Courthouse.

3. Take all the original documents and two (2) copies of each document to the Clerk's Office along with the filing fee or the Petition to Sue/Appeal as an Indigent.

NOTE: The Clerk will determine whether you can have your filing fee waived or if you have to pay the fee.

4. Check with the Clerk of Court to be sure you have filed all the required papers.

NOTE: Some counties have more forms to file that are specific to that particular county

5. After all the forms are filed, you must then serve a copy of the Civil Summons and Complaint on all defendants.

Tips for Successful Filing:

1. Payment of Fees:

If you have to pay any court costs, bring cash. Some clerks accept certified checks, some accept money orders, but all accept cash. Contact the Clerk's Office to find out whether the sheriff's service fee is waived for people who file as an indigent, and if not, find out the exact amount of the fee and bring it in cash.

2. Copies:

Make your own copies of the papers you are filing before you go to the Clerk's Office. You will need the original for the Court. You will need at least one copy for each defendant and a copy for yourself. Most clerks do not have time to make copies for you, and they will charge you for any copies they make.

3. Notarizing:

For papers that must be notarized, have them notarized before you go to the Clerk's Office. Most Clerk's Offices do not provide notary services.

4. Courtesy:

Always be courteous to the staff at the Clerk's Office.

5. Address:

Make sure that the Clerk's Office has your current address and contact information. Contact the Clerk if you have any questions about a hearing date.

6. Contacting the Clerk's Office after Filing:

If you need to contact the Clerk's Office about your case, have the docket number and the case name available. The case name consists of the names of the plaintiff and the defendant.

V. Instructions for "Serving" the Defendant

The words "service" or "serving" are legal terms that mean delivering the court papers to the Defendant. You CANNOT hand deliver the papers. You must serve the Defendant as required by North Carolina law and have legal proof that the Complaint and Civil Summons were delivered to the Defendant.

Ways to serve the court papers on the Defendant include:

1. By Sheriff

The easiest method is to have the Sheriff in the county where the Defendant lives or works serve the Defendant for you. To do this, pay a fee (typically $30.00) to the Sheriff of the county where the Defendant lives or works and they will deliver the papers for you. If you are indigent, this fee may be waived. The clerk will direct you as to what documents to take to the Sheriff's office or may deliver the documents for you.

The fee is subject to future increase so always ask the Clerk or Sheriff how much the service fee will be.

2. By Certified Mail

To serve the Defendant by mail, you need to mail the Complaint and Civil Summons to the Defendant's mailing address by Certified or Registered Mail, Return Receipt Requested. Once the green receipt is returned to you, you must complete and file with the court an "Affidavit of Return of Service by Certified Mail." A sample of this Affidavit of Return of Service follows this section.

3. By Acceptance of Service

The Defendant may also sign a sworn statement before a Notary Public that he/she received the Complaint and Civil Summons. This type of statement is not included in the Pro Se Packet. The Defendant is responsible for preparing and filing this statement with the Court.

4. By Publication

If you have made all possible efforts to find the Defendant, and still cannot locate his or her address, you may also consider serving the Defendant by publication in the newspaper. This type of service is not recommended and additional forms will be necessary to file with the newspaper and the court. It is up to you to get these forms from an attorney or the Clerk of Court. They are not available on the court's website.

VI. Defendant's Answer and Counterclaims

The Defendant has thirty (30) days to file an "Answer" or a "Motion for Extension of Time" once he/she is served your custody or visitation complaint. If the Defendant files an answer, he/she or his/her lawyer will send you a copy. If the Answer includes a Counterclaim or issues other than custody/visitation, then you have thirty (30) days to file a Reply. You should consult an attorney to get some legal advice and make sure to file a response on time.

VII. Mediation

After the Defendant files an Answer, or the thirty (30) days to file an Answer have ended, the case is set for mediation. In many counties it is your obligation as the “Plaintiff” (the person filing the action) to schedule the mediation and to send the other side notice. If you do not hear from the court about scheduling your mediation, you should call the Clerk’s office and ask how to set your case for mediation.

What is Mediation?

North Carolina law requires that the parties to a custody lawsuit attend mediation before the case goes to a judge. “Mediation” is a meeting where the people involved in the custody lawsuit (a parent, grandparent, or other legal guardian) sit in a together with a mediator. Each person takes turns telling the mediator and the other side what they each want for the child’s custody and visitation plan. The goal of mediation is for the parties to agree on a plan for custody and visitation. The topics discussed are usually: where the child will live, a visitation schedule for weekends, midweek visits, telephone calls, holidays, summer breaks, and school breaks. Child support is NOT discussed or decided in the mediation.

Who is the Mediator?

The mediator is a person who does not take any person’s side in the mediation. The mediator is a “neutral,” trained professional whose only job is to help the parties reach an agreement. The mediator will not decide who is right and wrong or force anyone to agree to anything. The mediator is appointed and paid for by the Court.

How much will it cost?

Mediation is free. If you are asked to pay for this service, please contact the Legal Aid of North Carolina’s Helpline at 1-866-219-5262.

Where is the Mediation held?

The mediation is held at the courthouse or another location typically in the county where the lawsuit has been filed.

Will attorneys be there?

No.

What happens if we reach an agreement?

The mediator will put the custody and visitation agreement in writing and each party will sign it. This may be done by mail several days after the mediation has ended. This agreement is called a “Parenting Plan” or “Parenting Agreement.”

After the parties sign the Parenting Plan, the family Court Judge signs it, making it become a Court Order.

What if one side wants to change the Parenting Plan?

If one side wants to change the Parenting Plan, that person needs to file a motion to modify. The Court will send the parties to mediation again.

What if one side violates the Parenting Plan?

If one party violates the Parenting Plan, then the other party can file a motion in court to ask the family Court Judge to require the other party to come to Court and explain why she or he violated the Parenting Plan. The Court can punish the other side for violating the Plan, or the Court can modify the Plan.

What if we do not reach an agreement at mediation?

Your case will be heard in Court and decided by a Judge.

What are the benefits of reaching an agreement at mediation?

Mediation is usually quicker than going to Court to get a decision. You can avoid the possibility that the Judge will rule against you. It is less of an emotional trauma than going to Court. You can save yourself and your witnesses the time, inconvenience, and embarrassment of testifying in open Court.

Tips for Successful Mediation

1. Know Your Rights

Attend a custody clinic and/or read about North Carolina custody laws before you go to mediation. Consult with a private attorney or Legal Aid attorney.

2. Compromise

Be willing to be reasonable. You will not get everything you want or ask for. Be prepared to give in on one thing so that you can focus on getting something else that is more important to you.

3. Know Your "Bottom Line"

Before you attend mediation, decide what are the most important things for you to get and where you are willing to compromise.

4. Be Prepared

Before you attend mediation, think about what you want and write it down. Some things to think about are:

- The number of nights each person will have the child sleep at his/her house. The number of overnight stays can affect the amount of child support you can get.
- Will the schedule change in any way during the summer months? What are the "summer months"?
- What time and place will the child be picked up and dropped off for visitation changes?
- Where will the child spend holidays including New Years' Day, Good Friday, Easter, Memorial Day, July 4th, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Eve and Christmas Day?
- Where will the child spend each parent's birthday, the child's birthday, Mother's Day and Father's Day?
- Who will have the final right to make decisions concerning the child's medical treatment and education?
- Will this person first have to discuss these decisions with the other parent before making a decision?

5. Focus Forward

Control your emotions during the mediation. Look forward, not backwards. Do not get stuck on your past frustrations or anger during the mediation. Do not be distracted by the other person's bad behavior or insults. Stay focused on the future and be hopeful about reaching an agreement. This may take a lot of work. However, please let the mediator know if you are feeling intimidated.

6. Review the Final Agreement Carefully Before You Sign It

If you have a "Parenting Plan," be sure it reflects what you agreed to. If you need to make changes, contact the mediator and request the change.

VIII. Conclusion

If for any reason your mediation does not reach a settlement, your custody case will go to trial. Custody trials can take a few hours or weeks to complete. Parties without attorneys face many obstacles in attempting to handle their own custody trials. Legal Aid of North Carolina is working on a follow-up video and instructions that will help a person learn how to prepare for and present evidence in a custody hearing. Because of the high demand for services, Legal Aid of North Carolina may not be able to provide individual consultations if your custody case goes to trial. You are always advised to seek private legal counsel, if possible, to assist in the actual trial of a custody case.

Information About Servicemembers Civil Relief Act Affidavits And Declarations

1. Plaintiff to file affidavit/declaration

In any civil action or proceeding, including any child custody proceeding, in which the defendant does not make an appearance, the court, before entering judgment for the plaintiff, shall require the plaintiff to file with the court an affidavit—

- (A) stating whether or not the defendant is in military service and showing necessary facts to support the affidavit; or
- (B) if the plaintiff is unable to determine whether or not the defendant is in military service, stating that the plaintiff is unable to determine whether or not the defendant is in military service.

50 U.S.C. 3931(b)(1).

2. Appointment of attorney to represent defendant in military service

If in a civil action or proceeding in which the defendant does not make an appearance it appears that the defendant is in military service, the court may not enter a judgment until after the court appoints an attorney to represent the defendant. If an attorney appointed to represent a service member cannot locate the service member, actions by the attorney in the case shall not waive any defense of the service member or otherwise bind the service member. 50 U.S.C. 3931(b)(2).

State funds are not available to pay attorneys appointed pursuant to the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act. To comply with the federal Violence Against Women Act and in consideration of G.S. 50B-2(a), 50C-2(b), and 50D-2(b), plaintiffs in Chapter 50B, Chapter 50C, and Chapter 50D proceedings should not be required to pay the costs of attorneys appointed pursuant to the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act. Plaintiffs in other types of actions and proceedings may be required to pay the costs of attorneys appointed pursuant to the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act. The allowance or disallowance of the ordering of costs will require a case-specific analysis.

3. Defendant's military status not ascertained by affidavit/declaration

If based upon the affidavits filed in such an action, the court is unable to determine whether the defendant is in military service, the court, before entering judgment, may require the plaintiff to file a bond in an amount approved by the court. If the defendant is later found to be in military service, the bond shall be available to indemnify the defendant against any loss or damage the defendant may suffer by reason of any judgment for the plaintiff against the defendant, should the judgment be set aside in whole or in part. The bond shall remain in effect until expiration of the time for appeal and setting aside of a judgment under applicable Federal or State law or regulation or under any applicable ordinance of a political subdivision of a State. The court may issue such orders or enter such judgments as the court determines necessary to protect the rights of the defendant under this Act. 50 U.S.C. 3931(b)(3).

4. Satisfaction of requirement for affidavit/declaration

The requirement for an affidavit above may be satisfied by a statement, declaration, verification, or certificate, in writing, subscribed and certified or declared to be true under penalty of perjury. 50 U.S.C. 3931(b)(4). The presiding judicial official will determine whether the submitted affidavit is sufficient.

5. Penalty for making or using false affidavit/declaration

A person who makes or uses an affidavit permitted under 50 U.S.C. 3931(b) (or a statement, declaration, verification, or certificate as authorized under 50 U.S.C. 3931(b)(4)) knowing it to be false, shall be fined as provided in title 18, United States Code, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both. 50 U.S.C. 3931(c).
