Thank you for considering a sponsorship to support Legal Aid of North Carolina's longstanding Martin Luther King, Jr. internship and professional development program.

Legal Aid of NC's MLK internships provide a paid 10-week opportunity for 30-40 talented law students to spend the summer experiencing the real world of legal aid advocacy.

MLK interns work under the supervision of seasoned Legal Aid attorneys in one of our 23 offices or special projects serving all 100 counties across the state. Internships bring legal theory to life with substantive work on real cases for real clients. Interns also benefit from accompanying MLK trainings and events that support their professional and personal development.

Sponsorships make paid legal aid internships possible for law students with an interest in various programs and locations within our statewide, nonprofit law firm.

Ariana Ceja Sotelo

University of South Carolina
Joseph F. Rice School of Law

"Having worked at Legal Aid NC before I began law school, I knew the people have an unmatched amount of passion and dedication for what they do, and I knew that interning as a law student with the Immigration Pathways for Victims program would be a perfect learning environment."

Cynthia Byrd

North Carolina Central University
School of Law

"As a law student and former educator, I am drawn to Legal Aid's commitment to amplify the voices of the marginalized. I look forward to advocating for people in a manner that makes them feel valued and protected by our justice system."

Devonte Wilson

North Carolina Central University
School of Law

"My ultimate goal is to become a litigation attorney. Legal Aid NC helped me by improving my legal research and writing skills, offering practical experience, and expanding my professional network."
